

V. Sister Agnes Carmel

wish me to send you that letter to help others in matters of your conscience, and you find satisfactory results, just let me know.

Hoping this finds you and your whole outlook brightened and brightening, I beg to remain in the privileged service of our dear Lord's "least brethren".

Sincerely Yours in the Sacred Heart,

Fr. Solanus, O.F.M. Cap.

Bles'd and praised be the Sacred Heart of Jesus and next to it the Immaculate Heart of Mary, our blessed Mother, Queen of the Universe!

P.S. Dear Sister Agnes Carmel: After the above conclusion I read your interesting letter of April 27th last, which I should have taken time to do before writing; and again as before I would stress the necessity of humble patience -- of patient humility.

Do not lament or be discouraged at your inabilities, e.g., of mixing with associates, etc. The conscientious exercise of the talents God has otherwise blessed you with surely excuses you from such and ought to makeup for the former. At the same time just the weaknesses we experience -- and who is so stupid as to imagine he is an exception! -- are naturally providential guards against one of the very greatest dangers to genius, "the big-head". So instead of lamenting such weaknesses we really ought to thank God continually for them. In fact I believe that in the sight of Almighty God just the light to see such poverty in our own makeup and to realize thereby something of our stupidity to which sin has caused in our characters is a special grace to make us other than crazy worldlings that have no faith and never learn to really think.

Fr. Sol.
